Black Child Development Institute (Milwaukee, Wisconsin)

The Black Child Development Institute (BCDI) was officially recognized in 1997.

According to their mission and goal statement, "Our specific goals for Black children and their families were to: implement and provide services to enhance their quality of life, assess public policies impacting them, and develop/strengthen/recommend policy changes for their betterment."

Within this community organization is the Family Empowerment Program - aimed at building parent capacity. By participating in this program, families are empowered to build the capacity of their children, and advocate for their children from birth through college. The BCDI takes pride in being culturally responsive and relevant, trauma sensitive, developmentally appropriate and two-generational, while also being aligned with current research and practices, and action oriented.

This community organization takes pride in developing programs related to policy, early child care and education, health, family engagement, literacy, and child welfare.

The BCDI hosts many community events throughout the year, and a calendar can be found on their website.

Wisconsin Shares Child Care Subsidy Program

The Wisconsin Shares Child Care Subsidy Program supports low-income families with financial aid to cover a portion of child care costs while parents or other caregivers are working/participating in another approved activity.

Low income families who have children under the age of 13 may be eligible for services. If the family has a child who has special needs, the child may be eligible for services until their 19th birthday.

Parents or caregivers must be working or participating in other approved activities in order to qualify for assistance. If there are multiple caregivers in the home, care will only be covered if there is overlap in caregiver schedules.

It is important to note that there are certain eligibility requirements in order to qualify for the Wisconsin Shares Child Care Subsidy Program. Further information on the eligibility requirements can be found on the Department of Children and Families website.

UMOS Child Care Services

UMOS is a non profit organization provides programs and services which improve the employment, educational, health, and housing opportunities of underserved populations. UMOS has locations across the nation that focus specifically on child development, workforce development, and social services.

According to UMOS, their Migrant and Seasonal Head Start Program “.... is designed to meet the needs of migrant and seasonal farmworker families by providing comprehensive and holistic services with a focus on “school readiness” through Early Learning Standards. The programs within the division are individualized for each child’s needs, are age-appropriate and encourage best practices in programming. MSHS utilizes a Management Systems approach to services, which ensures program effectiveness and accountability to stakeholders. UMOS stakeholders include parents, policy groups, community representatives, board of directors and program and administrative staff at all levels of program operations.”

UMOS utilizes parent engagement to support the child’s educational readiness and the holistic development of the child. Parent meetings are bilingual, and UMOS is working to increase the engagement of positive, male role models.

UMOS also offers workforce development and job center resources for parents and caregivers. This includes Adult Education, Employee Services, and much more!

UMOS holds many community events throughout the year, and the community calendar can be found on their website.

Wisconsin Works (W-2)

Wisconsin Works is Wisconsin's Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF). It is a temporary program that provides cash assistance and case management to low-income families and pregnant women. Both parents may benefit from W-2, regardless if the child lives with said parent. The purpose of W-2 is to provide families with job skills and comfortability during times of hardship.

W-2 provides: case management services, vocational education and training, assistance with searching for housing, child care, and employment, assistance in applying for Social Security or Disability Insurance, and work experience through supervised worksites.

With this program, you are required to work or participate in activities that help prepare you for work. You can apply at your local W-2 Agency. The ACCESS website has an interactive interview to help you determine your eligibility.

For more information, please visit <https://dcf.wisconsin.gov/w2/parents/w2>. You may also contact Kara Anderson at kara.anderson@isthmusmontessoriacademy.org or at (608) 661-8200.

Rise - Wisconsin

Rise is a community based organization that provides home visiting services, early childhood education, care coordination, stabilization and support, mental health assessment and evaluation, and respite care.

Rise is also home to The Respite Center. The Respite Center is an emergency child care and parent support service that provides respite, child care, and resources for children ages 0-14. Some services provided through this facility are: planned child care while parents attend appointments, search for housing, or look for employment, emergency child care and support when a crisis occurs, and information/referral to community services.

Through Care Coordination and Mental Health Services is a program titled Children Come First. Children Come First is an intensive care unit for children with mental health concerns wanting to remain in their homes and communities. Their Comprehensive Community Services is a recovery-oriented program for youth and adults living with mental health needs. Rise also provides Court Ordered Evaluations - particularly for outpatient mental health assessments ordered under statutes.

Rise provides Early Childhood and Home Visiting Programs. The Early Childhood Initiative is a voluntary home visiting program that provides support for pregnant women and families with children ages 0-4. The Parent-Child Program is an early literacy and school readiness program for children ages 2-4 that equips parents with the skills to foster development in their children. For specific to expecting families, there is the Welcome Baby & Beyond. Welcome Baby & Beyond offers education and support for families with children ages 0-5. This program helps to promote safe, healthy, and positive environments for families and children.

Rise is located in Madison, Wisconsin and hosts many community events throughout the year. The calendar can be found on their website.

The Canopy Center

The Canopy Center is dedicated to children, teens, and families affected by trauma and adversity. The Canopy Center is a child abuse treatment and prevention program founded in 1977. While most child abuse is addressed by removing the child(ren) from the home - the Canopy Center uses methods to strengthen family units and address the long term affects of child abuse.

The Oasis Program serves as part of the Canopy Center and focuses specifically on the children and families who have been subject to incest and sexual abuse. The Oasis Program offers individual therapy, group therapy, and family therapy. Oasis provides therapy services to children and non-offending parents and caregivers in order to reduce and understand the short and long term effects of sexual abuse.

CASA - or Court Appointed Special Advocates - are also provided through the Canopy Center to children and teens who are current under protection from Dane County. The purpose of this program is to be a voice for individuals who have been abused or neglected within the court systems. In order to make this program function most effectively, it requires cooperation between Dane County Juvenile Courts, and Dane County Department of Human Services.

The Parent to Child (P2C) is a home visiting service associated with the Canopy Center. The Canopy Center provides staff and volunteer Family Interaction Specialists supervise visits while acting like mentors and resources. Family visits may take place in the home, in the community, or at a previously determined visitation site.

Referrals are needed for most programs through the Canopy Center. If you need assistance with the referral process, please contact Kara Anderson at kara.anderson@isthmusmontessoriacademy.org or at (608) 661-8200.
